INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

IN publishing an Illustrated Catalogue of our assortment of the Materials made use of by different descriptions of Artists, it has been our aim so to arrange and classify the articles that upon consulting the INDEX, an Artist will at once be able to see what he wants, and in which part of the book he will find it detailed. A Catalogue made in this manner is, without doubt, the most satisfactory form in which to construct it.

That which has heretofore been the occasion of great complaint on the part of the Trade (a variety of prices and discounts), we have tried to, and we think have successfully overcome, by arranging the retail or catalogue prices so that, with two or three exceptions, we shall be able to make a uniform discount.

The exceptions are, Canvas, Tin Boxes for Oil Colors, and Books on Art, in all of which, in consequence of making them leading articles, competition has reduced the profits below a remunerative standard.

We think that we may, with justice, claim a superiority for the BRUSHES of our own manufacture, for which we have been awarded premiums by the "American Institute" of New York, in 1855, and the "Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics' Association" of Boston, in 1856, whilst for the other articles, we supply them of as good qualities as any other house in the Trade.

In conclusion, we trust that this little book will be of mutual advantage to our patrons and to us.
